

The key to happiness is having lots of money

The only way we can understand the world is through scientific experiments

Human beings have a soul that continues to exist after their body dies

The most important quality of a country's ruler is being a good thinker

It is never, ever right to tell a lie

The best things in life are things that money can't buy